

You're such a good dog.
Oh, you're a good dog.

She sits, raises her paw.
Where you lean.

Tail wags, thumping the stucco wall
Orbs raise, blink.

Holla, perro, you say.

down shyly, yet hopefully.
brings her head and brown eyes

gazes fruitfully up at you the short-haired yellow dog

and away,
brings her head and brown eyes

content to be near you and rest.
she lays down, rests her chin

on your shoe,
Confirming friendship,

Content - Marilyn Zelke-Windau

Content

Honorable Mention

processes your leg with kindness in return.
She sits, raises her paw,

- Marilyn Zelke-Windau

she lays down, rests her chin
on your shoe,
Confirming friendship,
Content - Marilyn Zelke-Windau

in the stretches of the world,
would have weaved
long stretches of me
Had I lived in a kind world,
full of loss,
to crates, their lungs
from your bent neck.

at the great spill of me. Smell me
is never allowed; at my flank,
child, put your head where our kind
as long as my body wanted life.

and theirs
and my life would have been mine
of strangers,
for them, not for a trade taking in the milk I created my natural-born children

world, my milk would have been Had I been born into a kinder even one.

and could not touch
and another,
and also had one,
I was also a child.

Holstein

Editor's Appreciation

Holstein

- Gretchen Primack

in the stretches of the world,
would have weaved
long stretches of me
Had I lived in a kind world,
full of loss,
to crates, their lungs

from your bent neck.

at the great spill of me. Smell me
is never allowed; at my flank,
child, put your head where our kind
as long as my body wanted life.

Origami Poems Project
KINDNESS Contest 2016
Finalist Judge, Peg Quinn

Honorable Mentions

Saint of the Day - Jan Chronister
&
Content - Marilyn Zelke-Windau

Editor's Appreciation
Holstein - Gretchen Primack

Honorable Mention

Saint of the Day

In class she knits prayer shawls.
Smooth yarn rolls between her fingers like rosary beads. Each stitch a wish for recovery from sickness heartache, addiction. By noon

she is halfway there. The instructor frowns at her, blind to the work of her soul.

- Jan Chronister

www.origamipoems.com origamipoems@gmail.com

Every Origami micro-chapbook may be printed for free from the website.

Cover: Trumpet Flowers
Photo by Jan Keough

Origami Poetry Project™

Kindness Contest © 2016

Honorable Mentions

Saint of the Day by Jan Chronister
Content by Marilyn Zelke-Windau

~
Editor's Appreciation
Holstein by Gretchen Primack
*

Thanks to all who submitted their work.
Our Anthology, 'The Best of Kindness' will be available on Amazon, April 2016