Vignettes of Childhood

Carol Anderheggen © 2018

Every microchap may be printed from the website.

Author’s Notes:
Example from a Kate Spade handbag I bought which inspired these very short story-poems: She tucked her coral lipstick away and floated back to the party. So, these should be read as very short, short stories. - Carol Anderheggen on hot summer days, the smell of privet propels me back to life as a young mother.

When I slid behind the wheel, my daughters (who had never seen me drive) began to wail as I slid behind the wheel.

The mornings were always so: "Pebbles get off my face," shouts my mother's petticoat to her cat.

$5.20 is missing from daughter one’s piggy bank.

Author’s Notes:
Excerpt from a Kate Spade handbag I bought which inspired these very short story-poems: She tucked her coral lipstick away and floated back to the party. So, these should be read as very short, short stories. - Carol Anderheggen

The mornings were always so: "Pebbles get off my face," shouts my mother's petticoat to her cat.

$5.20 is missing from daughter one’s piggy bank.

Author’s Notes:
Example from a Kate Spade handbag I bought which inspired these very short story-poems: She tucked her coral lipstick away and floated back to the party. So, these should be read as very short, short stories. - Carol Anderheggen

The mornings were always so: "Pebbles get off my face," shouts my mother's petticoat to her cat.

$5.20 is missing from daughter one’s piggy bank.

Author’s Notes:
Example from a Kate Spade handbag I bought which inspired these very short story-poems: She tucked her coral lipstick away and floated back to the party. So, these should be read as very short, short stories. - Carol Anderheggen

The mornings were always so: "Pebbles get off my face," shouts my mother's petticoat to her cat.

$5.20 is missing from daughter one’s piggy bank.